ODR (ONE D OR 2 MM?) TO A GOOD LOOKIN' CHOOK

By E. G. ROSS.

This last weekend goes slow as can be (Hope its the last before my draft)

I've exhausted myself doing nowt
My books I have read, the movies are out
There are odd as your hat and quite naive
The villain foiled, the hero reprieved
Typical Hollywood craft.

To pass the time and profit by it

I've decided to write a poem

It won't be an epic or sonnet supreme
But more like a nice and quite pleasant dream
Though thoughts expressed are forthright and honest
And vows of esteem will stand any test
It's really to welcome you home.

You're the bestest girl in all the world
For many a varied reason
You are pretty and sweet, (can housekeep too)
There's nothing at all you cannot do
In the way of being a perfect wife
Like buying a nice new sharp bread-knife
Or baking chocolate cakes even.

These lines sincere of amateur prose
Are recording my heartfelt feeling
For you alone in our life side by side
Of my love that ebbs not like the tide
And so give you my thanks for being mine
Not just for now, till the end of time
Or after my sunburn stops feeling.

(With apologies to Ethel N. Bradley the celebrated poetess)
